Mrs. Richard Townsend has returned to Washington and opened her residence in Massachusetts avenue for the winter season. Margaret Draper, their kinswoman, and Prince Andrea Boncompagni.

Because of the unusual popularity which the Wednesday night dinner parties at the Chevy Chase Club have enjoyed for the last year or so, resulting in an overcrowded dining room and ball room, the club has decided to limit the number of tables on that evening henceforth.

The Rev. Dr. Clark officiated at the marriage last evening of Miss Mary Pearl Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Torrence Robinson and Charles W. Friede, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Friede, of St. Louis. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock at the Hamline Methodist Church, and was followed by a reception for the bride's party at the home of the bride's parents.

The decorations at the church were attractively carried out in yellow and white, quantities of chrysanthemums being used, together with white cosmos and an effective arrangement of autumn leaves. Miss Edith Athey gave a delightful organ recital before the ceremony, assisted by William Kost, violinist, and Dore Walten, cellist.

Bride's Dress Beautiful. The bride, who was escorted by her father, wore a lovely gown of point d'appique built over white satin, with a long court train. Her long tulle veil, fastened with a coronet of orange blossoms, had a cap of duchess lace. She carried a shower of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. William W. Adams, who was the matron of honor, and Miss May Wagenaar, the bridesmaid, wore attractive gowns of yellow tulle and silver over yellow satin. Each wore an aigret in her hair on a yellow bandeau and carried white chrysanthemums. The little flower girl, Miss Beverly Foulk, was in a dainty frock of white organdy and lace, worn with yellow sash and yellow hair ribbon. She carried a basket of rose leaves to strew in the path of the bride. T. McCoy was best man for Mr. Friede, and the ushers included Leonard

Bowen, T. A. Brohaugh, W. N. White, and William W. Adams.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Friede left for a wedding trip, the latter wearing a modish gown of blue and black, combined with georgette crepe and silver lace, topped by a blue velvet coat.
